

Edgar Andres Sarmiento Garcia, 2015 Urban Mobility Challenge winner

Local Motors community member Edgar Andrés Sarmiento Garcia won the Local Motors Urban Mobility Challenge in 2015. His design sparked what has today become Olli, the self-driving vehicle.

An industrial designer, Garcia studied at National University of Colombia. He has worked at Big Brand Lab and The Sign SAS in Bogotá as a product designer. He is a member of the Colombian Academy of Genealogy and is currently working toward his Master's Degree in transportation design at Istituto d'Arte Applicata e Design in Torino, Italy. A Colombian-Italian, Garcia's passion is design, but in his free time, he enjoys studying genealogy and technology and is an avid BMX rider.

